Outlook for 2011

Success

Feng Shui Direction:	Southeast
Direction meaning:	Wealth
2011 Flying Star:	Windfall
Feng Shui Activation:	A metal bowl or vase with water or a blue object

This could be a very good year for your career because of the Flying Star that sits here. It's known as the Windfall Star and is particularly beneficial to people with jobs in the military, police force or other law enforcement line of work.

With the Windfall Star on your career direction it's very possible for you to get a promotion or an unexpected bonus. Because this Star brings one-time events a promotion may not necessarily come with a salary increase. It could come with unexpected perks though.

If you run your own business you could very easily land a big client this year. Again, because the Windfall Star is more about a one time opportunity once you have done the work for this client your relationship could be over so budget the financial benefits you gain from this client wisely.

It's also possible that you could land a job if you've been out of work and looking for one. It's likely to be a part-time or a temporary position though so be aware of that going in. In any case, it's still an opportunity to work which is a good thing.

Activate the Windfall Star by placing a metal bowl or metal vase of water in the southeast area of your home and/or office. If the only room in this area is a bedroom then put something blue here instead like a pillow, blanket or rug.

Health

Feng Shui Direction:	East
Direction meaning:	Family / History
2011 Flying Star:	Transformation
Feng Shui Remedy:	24” Six rod metal wind chime

The Star that sits in your Health direction can mean a variety of things depending upon your current health. If you're in good shape you may discover a new exercise routine or diet plan that puts you in even better condition.

You may also decide to try something you've never tried before like running a marathon or joining a gym. If you do you may even be able to get your mom, dad, brother or sister to join you or you may be the one joining them in this new adventure. This will make your workouts more fun and bring a little friendly competition with it too.

If you are not in such good shape or you have a chronic health issue such as high blood pressure or diabetes then there is the possibility you will experience an unexpected flare up or problem you weren't anticipating. This could happen even if you and your health care provider have done a good job of keeping your illness under control.

If you do happen to feel that you're not quite yourself at some point during the year be sure to visit your doctor just to make sure everything is okay. The sooner you act (even if you think you're being overly cautious) the better it will be for you.

Hang a 24" long or longer six rod metal wind chime in the east area of your home or office. If you hang it outside on the roof or gutter make sure to tie a string or rubber band around it because you do not want this wind chime to ring. The reason for this is that another feng shui energy called Grand Duke Jupiter sits in the east with the Transformation Star in 2011.

Noise triggers the negative energy of Grand Duke Jupiter so you want to keep the east area of your home quiet this year.

Relationships

Feng Shui Direction:	South
Direction meaning:	Fame	/
Recognition
2011 Flying Star:	Illness
Feng Shui Remedy:	6 rod metal wind chime

The Illness Star sits in the south this year which happens to be your Relationship direction. This Star indicates that you will feel like you're working hard to connect with people this year (i.e. clients, friends, family members, your boss, co-workers, employees, etc.) and they don't seem to be reciprocating.

This Star is actually asking you to build up your relationship muscles, to try harder to relate to people even if they don't seem to notice or appreciate your efforts. Don't take it personally, just keep in mind that what you put in this year will start paying off for you next year.

If you're outgoing and personable you could find that your social calendar isn't as full as usual in 2011. Take this time to re-connect with people you don't usually socialize with or get to spend as much time with as you'd like. I will caution you that you may not enjoy their company as much as your usual circle of friends initially but by the end of the year you will have re-evaluated who you really want to spend time with on a regular basis.

To reduce the effects of the Illness Star hang a six rod metal wind chime (12" to 18" long) in the south area of your home and office.

Wisdom

Feng Shui Direction:	North
Direction meaning:	Career / Future
2011 Flying Star:	Conflict
Feng Shui Remedy:	Laughing Buddha, extra light

With the Conflict Star on your Wisdom direction this year you may find that people you work with are not very receptive to your ideas and suggestions. You may even find that they openly disagree with you even if you're not expecting such a reaction.

This is not really the year to present new ideas to the boss or even to launch any new ideas you have about a service or product. People are just not going to respond in the way you want them to right now. They may even be critical but not in a constructive way.

If you're not in a job that requires you to generate ideas or come up with new products you could find that the way this Star plays itself out is in social situations. When someone you know tells a story about something going on in their life and then asks you for advice they may disregard it just as quickly as they asked for it. If that's the case just let it go. Their problems aren't yours to solve anyway.

This year a good approach for you to take is to answer a question with a question. If your boss asks you what you think about a situation just say something like, "You know, I was wondering what your take on that was." This will give you some insight as to where they're going with the question and put you in a better position to answer in a way that they're willing to hear.

This same strategy will work with friends and family too though you're most likely to run into this situation at work.

Reduce the effects of the Conflict Star by placing a laughing Buddha (18" or taller) in the north area of your home and office. Put pictures that make you laugh in the north too.

Bringing in extra light is also beneficial.

Other Feng Shui

If you would like to feng shui your Frustration, Theft, Disease and Total Loss directions here are the remedies and activations for you to use. The benefit of using feng shui in your non-supportive directions is that you can still neutralize difficult Stars and bring out the positive energy of the beneficial Stars that sit in those directions. This creates good feng shui energy for your entire home rather than just your four best directions.

If you decide you want to feng shui all the directions in your home make sure you activate your personal best directions first and then your other four feng shui directions.

Here are the activations and remedies for 2011:

Southwest – Place a green plant in a red pot in the southwest area of your home. This area supports loving relationships and the mother in the home.

West – Place an amethyst crystal anywhere in the west area of your home. This will support your creative endeavors and your children if you have any living at home.

Northwest – Place a palm sized quartz crystal in the northwest area of your home to gain support from helpful people in your life.

Northeast – Place a table fountain in the northeast area of your home unless the only room in the northeast is a bedroom. If this is the case then place something blue here instead like a pillow, blanket or throw rug. This will help support decision making and learning for the year.
